

Reading Through the Book Bands

At Emscote Infants School we use a system of coloured book bands to support children to be independent readers – starting from Pink and moving through to Lime.

The National Curriculum guidelines state that by the end of Term 1 in year 2, children working at the 'expected' level should be reading books in the Turquoise band. It is important to note that children learn in different ways and make progress at varying speeds.

As a rough guide, children are expected to reach the highest level (lime) at seven or eight years old. Children who read above lime level are reading fairly fluently and although some books are still graded above this level, children are reading such a wide range of material that the banding becomes less important.

Books vary in a number of ways throughout the bands: layout, pictures, size, vocabulary, type of book (fiction/non-fiction) and length of text. As children progress through the book bands, the changes are very gradual so they can develop the confidence and word knowledge for becoming a confident reader.

Progress through the bands is not automatic and it is important to ensure that children working in the early bands have secure understanding so that they remain in control of the task and well motivated as they move on to more challenging texts. This is particularly important for children at the early stages of learning English as an additional language.

This guidance can only give a rough idea of the right reading level for your child. There will be a wide range of reading abilities in any school year. As a rough guide, children should be able to read at least 90% of the words on the page without any problem. If the book is too easy, they can become disinterested. If it's too difficult, they can become frustrated, and may have to concentrate so hard on reading the words that they lose the enjoyment of understanding the story.

A Word of Caution!

You will be doing your child no favours if you rush them through books. It is not a race but a journey of exploration! Every child learns at different rates just as they learn to walk, dress themselves, learn to tie shoe laces or riding a bike for example. Reading should not be treated as a competition. If children are rushed through the books they will not achieve the enjoyment and understanding necessary.

Things to Remember

- We encourage you to listen to you your child read every day (a minimum of 4 times a week).
- Little and often is more beneficial than a long session once a week.
- Think about how long you are reading for - the amount of reading time shouldn't exceed your child's span of attention.
- Pick your timing carefully - it's best not to embark on a reading session when your child is tired.
- Every child is an individual - try not to compare your child's progress with other children or with other siblings.
- Discuss new word meanings – understanding language is vital to developing a wider vocabulary.

The more that you read,
The more things you will know.
The more that you learn,
The more places you'll go.
-Dr. Seuss
